

Ballad of Jim & Otto

Cousins Jim and Otto come from Glumbowitz

Royal counts from Europe,

where the family castle sits

They traveled the world and they were quite impressed

With what they found in these parts of the American West

Count Jim found him a dairy farm near Colorado Springs,

Built an out-of-town casino there, and other fine things,

Otto hit the hills up north of Pikes Peak

Got himself a ranch on a Florissant Creek, and chorus: With General Palmer out of the way

Building the railroad to Santa Fe,

Canyon trail old Otto'd ride down or .. (who wouldn't ~)

And serenade the wife of the founder of the town.

Jim made them Broadmoor's roads with a one-horse plow

Made the cheese and butter into better chow

Otto rarely emerged from his mountains afar;

-- The times when he did, he brought his guitar and

Cho.

Time came Count James returned to Glumbowitz;

A hundred years later, his Broadmoor's the Ritz

raised their girls in England

And the canyon bears her name, still echoes Otto singin':

Cho.
